GALILEO CAPITAL DIRECTOR WINS ANOTHER AWARD FROM THE FINANCIAL PLANNING INSTITUTE

Galileo Capital is proud to announce that Warren Ingram won the Media award from the Financial Planning Institute (FPI) at its annual Convention last night. Warren, a founding director, is the head of Galileo Capital's Financial Planning and Wealth Management business. This is the second award that Warren has received from the FPI as he was pronounced Financial Planner of the Year in 2011. We believe that Warren is the only person to have won both these awards from the FPI. This award, introduced in 2011, recognises a FPI member who is actively involved with and has made a significant contribution in the media (print, broadcast or online) to promote financial planning amongst consumers. This is the culmination of eight years of media work done by Warren and includes monthly articles written for Sunday Times, MoneyWeb, Finweek and a range of ad hoc articles for other publications. In addition, he has appeared on TV for SABC, eTV, Summit and CNBC Africa. He is a regular guest on 702 Radio and Cape Talk with Bruce Whitfield's Money Show in addition to ad hoc appearances on SAfm, Classic FM, Lotus and Kaya FM. All of Galileo Capital's media efforts are aimed at providing objective information and education on money matters to the general public. Over the years Warren has consistently educated the public on the following key points:

- Reduce or eliminate costs from your investments
- Focus on index investing for the core of your investment portfolios
- Educate yourself on financial matters and don't trust product providers at face value
- Always use CFP[®] Professionals when dealing with a financial planner

We look forward to the launch of Warren's book "Become your own Financial Advisor" on July 1st.
